

County Board Closes Session

Reports by committees assigned to pass on matters discussed at yesterday morning's session of the Delta County Board of Supervisors terminated the session late in the afternoon. Practically the entire afternoon was taken up by the committee reports.

Of chief interest was action taken by the committee assigned to study prospects for a new court house. A special committee, composed of Robert LeMire, chairman, Rex Stowe and Don Douville, was assigned to give the matter further study and report their findings at the next meeting of the board late next fall.

Concerning the board's discussion of the morning regarding inequalities in tax equalization, the equalization committee asked in a resolution that the county clerk be instructed to write to the State Tax Commission and endeavor to find out on what basis they arrived at their equalization of tax units. The board unanimously passed the resolution.

Examine Old Records
The board in a resolution decided that when delinquent tax land is taken over by the state, the state shall pay the county the amount of taxes due and the deeds for the property shall be recorded.

The board decided that current payments due the Pinecrest Sanatorium be held in abeyance until the board's session next October.

A request that the Delta County division of the state historical society be permitted to examine old records to help determine what records are obsolete and may be disposed of was approved and permission granted to the auditing committee to pass on expense involved.

Summer Schedule Approved
A report of repairs on the jail roof was approved.

Permission to purchase a power driven lawn mower, its cost not to exceed $100, was granted.

A summer schedule for working hours at the court house was approved. The hours will be 8:30 a. m. to noon; 1:30 p. m. to 5 p. m.

In response to complaints that the number of unlicensed dogs in the county was cause for concern, the board voted to appoint a county dog warden to operate under the jurisdiction of the sheriff's office. The warden's salary is to be $125 plus a $1 fee for each dog picked up during July. A county truck will be fitted to hold the picked-up animals and uncalled for animals will be destroyed at either Gladstone or Escanaba.

IRON RIVER—Dr. Robert Anderson, a former Iron River high school instructor and one time Iron Mountain News bureau manager here, will become assistant professor in the department of anthropology at the University of Utah in Salt Lake City in September. For the past three years he was on the staff of the department of anthropology and archaeology at Florida State university in Tallahassee.

MENOMINEE—Mrs. Alfred Turner, president of the Menominee Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary, was appointed patriotic instructor of the Michigan Department of the VFW Auxiliary, at the annual state encampment of the VFW Posts and Auxiliaries held in Grand Rapids, June 17-20. Mrs. Turner attended as a delegate of the local group.

BESSEMER—The North Central Airlines Co., has no intention of by-passing Green Bay in its flights to and from the Gogebic County airport, according to a report given to the board of supervisors yesterday by airport committee Walter Olson and auditor W. B. Faulk.

CRYSTAL FALLS—Contracts aggregating $67,092 for construction of a vault annex to the Iron county courthouse in Crystal Falls were awarded by the board of supervisors at their June meeting in the courthouse Tuesday. The contract-awarding action of the board signalled "go ahead" to its building committee and early the following morning workmen were on the courthouse grounds removing sod to begin excavation for the annex footing.

Hospital

William Weycker, 316 1st Ave. S., was admitted Saturday to St. Francis Hospital where he is confined as a medical patient. Mrs. Erick Fredrickson, 1202 Stephenson Ave., is a patient at St. Francis Hospital following a fall Sunday afternoon at Wells Park in which she suffered a broken arm.

Some meteorites contain as much as 90 per cent iron while others contain as little as 10 per cent.

Treasurer's Report:

Ask More Service, Pay More Tax, Brake Warns

The cost of state government—or any government for that matter—will become less only when the people stop asking their legislative representatives for additional governmental services.

"Taxes in Michigan are not as high as they can go," warned D. Hale Brake, Michigan state treasurer, in addressing a joint meeting of the Escanaba Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs and the Gladstone Rotary Club at the Delta Hotel Monday noon.

"So long as the people who come to the legislature ask for more governmental services, so long as the people think of more service from the state, then the cost of government will go up," the state treasurer warned. "And the cost will come down only when the people stop demanding more—for it is the service that costs money."

Little "Waste" In State
The answer is not in streamlining or reorganizing state government, he added. Consolidation of some departments was tried a few years ago, and there was no saving.

While there is some waste in state government it is not great and even if it were all eliminated "it would mean the saving of only a few thousands of dollars when we need to save millions," Brake said.

"It is the service that costs the money, and if we want more of it we'll have to pay for it."

The state treasurer reported that state government operations take only about 3 cents of each $1 paid by the "average" Michigan resident, and that 85 cents of that dollar "goes to the federal government."

Financial Trouble
Michigan is in financial trouble despite an "apparent" reduction in the state deficit from $65 million two years ago to $31 million a year ago, the state treasurer reported.

While the state may appear to be nearly out of the red this year, it will never be possible to achieve a balanced budget because neither revenue nor costs can be accurately estimated. Michigan's legislature is "economy minded" and is striving to keep costs down, the state treasurer said.

Brake was critical of the state civil service commission for its arbitrary and sudden $6 million wage boost for state employees, and noted that either the commission should have "absolute power to fix salaries" or the legislature should not be required to make appropriations for salaries over which it has no control.

Bridge Bond Interest
The state treasurer explained his position in connection with financing of the Straits of Mackinac Bridge, and declared that he is not opposed to the bridge but he is against the "outrageous interest rate for any agency of government to pay at this time."

If the bridge bonds are paid within a 25-year period, as is planned, there "will be paid $193 million in interest on a $93 million bridge," Brake observed. The state treasurer said that he was certain a lower interest rate could have been achieved had his suggestion on financing been approved.

During a question and answer period, the state treasurer expressed concern that township government might be weakened by the state assuming authority in placing values on property for tax purposes.

He said the state must have more money for highway development, and expressed the opinion that toll roads should be built where they will pay out.

Mrs. McGirr Dies At 83

Mrs. David (Kathryn) McGirr, 83, oldest native born resident of Escanaba, died at 5 p. m. Monday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ernest E. Richter, 207 N. 11th St. She had been in ill health the past five years and was confined to bed two years.

She was born in Escanaba April 18, 1877, and was a life-long resident of this community. Her husband died June 10, 1918.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Thomas (Abbie) Antoinette of Detroit, and Mrs. Richter, one brother, Horace Provo of Escanaba, and several nieces and nephews.

Friends of the family may call at the Alto Funeral Home beginning at 4 p. m. Wednesday. Services will be held at the funeral home chapel Thursday at 2 p. m. with the Rev. James G. Ward officiating. Burial will be in Lakeview Cemetery.

Extension Camp Program Planned At Sawyer Lake

Special classes in archery, safety, and group discussions will be some of the main features in the Upper Peninsula Young Men and Young Women's Extension Camp, June 26-28. The camp is slated for Sawyer Lake in Dickinson County.

Ben Westrate, assistant state 4-H club leader for the Upper Peninsula, says the camp is open to youths 16 years and older. The program is designed to give the young men and women leadership and organization training.

A 12 member committee from all parts of the Upper Peninsula planned the camp program and have assigned duties to youth groups for the event.

The camp committee includes: Elaine Tortelli, Henry Varda and Gail Banfield, all of Dickinson County; Bob Schenk and Carolyn Bartelli of Marquette County; Geraldine Miron and Arlene Woodard of Delta County; Lowell Malmquist and Sally Comish of Iron County; and James Walcutt, Kaye Stebbins and Darlene Waldo of Menominee County.

Delegates to the camp from Delta County will leave Escanaba at 5 p. m. on Saturday, June 26 and will return early Sunday afternoon. Anyone interested in the camp should contact the Extension Office in the Post Office Building.

Gladstone Woman Held In Probe Of Motoring Mishap

STEPHENSON—A Gladstone woman faces arraignment before Justice Ray Peterson of Spalding on a charge of reckless driving, as a result of an accident in Powers Sunday at 10 p. m. in which her passenger was injured after being dragged about 75 feet.

Deputy Andrew Vescolani reported that a car driven by Mrs. Marvel Thomma, R1 Gladstone, in which Lester Machia, 37, of Hermansville was riding, stopped in Powers, where Machia got out to unhook a two-wheel trailer the car had been pulling.

Vescolani said Mrs. Thomma started the car and the chain of the trailer caught Machia, dragging him about 75 feet before the car crashed into a parked car. The parked car, owned by Edward Luft, Marquette, was only slightly damaged.

Machia was taken to Pinecrest Sanatorium where examination disclosed a fractured rib and severe cuts and bruises on the body. He was removed to his home today after x-ray examination was taken.

Woman Confesses She Set Fire That Burned Home At Masonville

Mrs. Claire Deneau, 51, confessed to Michigan State Police at Marquette yesterday that she started the fire which caused the destruction of the Deneau home, 1-4 mile east of US-2 on County Road F-6 in the village of Masonville Sunday evening.

The confession followed a polygraph test which Mrs. Deneau and her husband, Philip, took at the State Police headquarters in Marquette. The confession was made to Detective Leonard Bartelli and Fire Marshal Harrison Smith.

Phillip Deneau had been held as a suspect in the case but was released after taking the lie detector test. The polygraph record showed that Mrs. Deneau was not telling the truth. When confronted with this information, she confessed that she had set the fire.

Mrs. Deneau said that she and her husband got into a quarrel at their home Sunday afternoon after returning from a Rapid River tavern. The husband left the house and Mrs. Deneau thought he had gone to visit a relative who lives nearby. She decided to start a fire in the shed that adjoins the home, believing that the fire would cause him to return to the house. Mr. Deneau, however, went to a tavern in Rapid River.

Mrs. Deneau told police that she lit some paper and tossed it into some wood piled in the shed. The fire got out of control, however, and quickly spread through the home, destroying the building and its contents.

Prosecutor Nick Chapek said this morning that Mrs. Deneau will probably be arraigned today on a charge of arson.

THINK TWICE BEFORE YOU PURCHASE ANY ARTHRITIS MEDICINE

Read these facts by Mrs. June Chapman, 3272 LaRue S.W., Grandville, Michigan, and judge for yourself why O-JIB-WA BITTERS is best for rheumatism and arthritis.

"I would have saved a lot of time, money and suffering if I had known about O-JIB-WA sooner. Nobody knows how terribly I suffered during the past five years. I had neuritis and rheumatism in my hips and legs and was right down in bed. I couldn't step on my feet for six weeks, so of course couldn't move about at all. I had such pains and cramps in my hips that I couldn't even get upstairs to bed, so had to sleep on the studio couch downstairs. Why the arthritis was so bad in my toes that I couldn't even wiggle them."

"I tried many things without results, even those tablets advertised highly on the radio and in the newspaper, but they brought no results whatsoever. I was discouraged, but had read about O-JIB-WA BITTERS in our paper and decided to try it. I took this medicine for six weeks and now am entirely better. It sure did wonders for me, as I can walk and get around good again, and do all my own housework. O-JIB-WA BITTERS has greatly helped my brother-in-law also, so you can see why I can say so highly of your medicine. Thanks to O-JIB-WA BITTERS, I really feel great now and have lots of pep. I certainly recommend that all who suffer from rheumatism, neuritis and arthritis give this famous medicine a fair trial."

Best Product Of Hearings Was Education Given Public

THE Senate subcommittee which heard two million words of testimony in the Army-McCarthy hearings must now weigh and sift this mountain of material for some kind of official report.

The issues were whether, on the one hand, Senator McCarthy and his aides used improper pressure to obtain favors for Pvt. G. David Schine, and, on the other, Secretary of the Army Stevens and Army Counsel John Adams employed "black-mail" to get McCarthy to halt his inquiry into communism in the Army.

In testifying on these central matters, one or more of the principals in the case must surely have committed perjury. For the record is replete with direct conflicts of statement, with flat contradictions by each side against the other.

Unhappily, these clashing points are so encased in the fuzz of hazy recollection on the part of virtually all the principals, that a finding of perjury by Attorney General Brownell would come as a surprise.

Out of this welter of conflicting and confusing testimony, it would seem to be terribly difficult to extract proof that a particular principal was lying at a particular time.

It would seem hard, too, to show conclusively that impropriety existed on either side, or, if it did, to what degree it was present.

But these things probably struck most average citizens who either viewed the hearings or read about them:

1. Both the Army and the McCarthy staff spent altogether too much time haranguing over the fate of Private Schine.

Words, Wit & Wisdom

By William Morris

A few weeks ago we mentioned the problem of one of our California readers who described himself as a long-time collector of bells of all sizes and shapes and lamented the fact that there was no name for her hobby analogous to "philatelist" for stamp collectors and "numismatist" for coin collectors. I suggested "tintinabulaphile," though noting that it was rather an awkward formulation.

Several readers have rushed to the lady's rescue, with perhaps the most cogent suggestion coming from R. D. Roberts of Bay City, Mich. "It seems to me," he writes, "that collectors of bells already have a name for themselves. Miss Conrad used it when she spoke of 'we bell collectors.' The term seems very apt and descriptive of the hobby."

"If, however, she wants a high-sounding name for her hobby, 'campanophile' seems to be the obvious term. We already have a family of rather familiar words compounded with campana, a Latin word for bell, such as 'campanile,' a bell tower. Various flowers with campanulate blossoms are the genus Campanula. Campanology is the study of bells and the campanologist is a student of bells. It should not be too hard for most people to identify a campanophile as a collector of bells."

A sound suggestion, it seems to me, and a most capable job of word-building. But Mr. Roberts, as his remark about "high-sounding names" would indicate, is no enthusiast for fussy labels and he proceeds to comment on "philatelists."

"Stamp collectors in general—I have been once since 1916—are not much inclined to call themselves philatelists. The word is used chiefly by beginners, stuffed shirts and noncollectors. Collectors nowadays band together in 'stamp clubs,' instead of 'philatelic societies.'"

A very interesting note on current usage and one that proves to be entirely accurate. I mentioned Mr. Roberts' observation to Jacques Minkus, the nation's number-one stamp dealer, who heartily agreed that the term "philately" is now little used. "And a good thing too," he noted. "Since stamp collecting has become the hobby of all the people, not just a rich and favored few, we can well afford to dispense with such high-flown terminology."

Many Death-Dealing Brain Tumors Yield To Surgery

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D. — Written for NEA Service

About one person out of 100 dies as a result of a brain tumor. As soon as this danger became fully realized, the resources of medical science were thrown into the battle. As a result, today many brain tumors can be discovered early and can be successfully removed by the highly skilled surgical methods which have been developed.

Tumors of the brain may lie almost anywhere inside the skull. The symptoms, therefore, depend on where the tumor is located, and its size.

In some cases, it may produce difficulties in swallowing. In other cases, the symptoms may involve the hearing, the eyesight, or muscular coordination in one part of the body or another. Headache is a fairly common symptom of brain tumor and so is persistent vomiting. Of course a person can have any of these symptoms from some other cause.

IF A BRAIN tumor is suspected, the nervous system must be carefully examined to find out exactly where the tumor is before an operation is even thought about. Such tests include examining the muscular

2. Stevens and Adams again and again got down on bended knees trying to appease McCarthy and Committee Counsel Roy Cohn.

3. There was no indication in the record that Schine ever did sufficient committee work to warrant all the fuss over him.

4. Chairman Mundt, thrust onto center stage in the inquiry, wielded his gavel as though it were made of putty.

5. Nobody showed any talent for keeping the hearings on the main track.

6. The country got its first long, hard look at Senator McCarthy in action.

Whatever the committee's verdict, the people who have seen or read all this, who have watched not only McCarthy but many lawmakers and officials in action under test, have had a vital lesson.

We are all better educated about the men who govern us. Maybe that's almost enough to have justified the whole incredible spectacle.

THE WRONG COMMITTEE (Minneapolis Tribune)

Before the McCarthy - Army hearings started, the most elemental code of justice dictated that they should not be held before the McCarthy subcommittee of the senate. When they ended Thursday, after 36 days of testimony, it had been made dreadfully plain that the wrong committee had been chosen.

Sen. McCarthy had stepped aside as chairman, but he dominated the hearings from the beginning. He took full advantage of the incredible situation which found his own committee sitting in judgment on him. The four Republican members of this committee—Mundt, Dirksen, Potter and Dworshak—were almost obsequiously considerate of him. They accorded him a deference rarely given to the army side. This deference often extended to Roy Cohn and Francis Carr. It was pretty much McCarthy's show, and he played the role of temperamental prima donna to the hilt.

Whatever the subcommittee's findings as to "improper pressures" (charged by the army) and "blackmail" (charged by McCarthy) certain things are already clear:

The constitutional issues raised by the hearings tended to overshadow the original charges. President Eisenhower met one of these issues when he properly sealed off the details of a high level executive conference from the committee. But McCarthy's defiance of the executive department in connection with confidential material presents a continuing challenge. His invitation to federal employees to give him such material, in violation of presidential directives and the law, was an invitation to anarchy.

The senator left no doubt that he considers himself above the law. He made it plain, time and again, that he is bound by no directives, no rules and no code of ethics as chairman of the permanent investigating subcommittee. Whatever is done by McCarthy and his staff must be accepted as incontrovertibly right. They conceive of themselves as the nation's chief citadel against Communist subversion. They implant in the public's mind the seeds of executive distrust—distrust of the Central Intelligence Agency, of army intelligence, of the justice department, of the state department, of the White House itself. To them the end of anti-communism justifies the most arbitrary and automatic means.

Two moves are now under way to strip McCarthy of his senate chairmanships. One of them was initiated by Sen. Flinders, a Republican, the other by Sen. Lehman, a Democrat. Such an action would help to restore dignity and decency to the investigative techniques of the senate subcommittee, and would partially disarm McCarthy of powers he has shamefully misused.

The American people should insist that this be done. It will be a sad commentary on the courage of the senate if it fails to do so.

strength, the vision and hearing, and the nerve reactions.

Fluid must be removed from the spinal canal or the openings in the brain and examined. Other fluids may be injected into the canal which will show up in X-rays and thus help in locating the tumor.

Air can be injected into the spaces in the brain—this sounds rather fearsome but is not—and this too helps to locate the area of the tumor. In some cases, measuring the electrical waves which pass through the brain is also of great value.

THERE ARE several kinds of tumors as well as many locations. Some are very rapidly growing and "malignant." In spite of all these difficulties, however, a great many tumors can be found and successfully removed surgically.

Needless to say this success, even though it is not yet perfect, represents a tremendous triumph for the nerve specialist and the surgeon dealing with that field.

Today, most of the large cities boast of brain and nerve surgeons who are extremely expert and whose ingenuity and skill cannot be surpassed anywhere on earth.

Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON — Regardless of how you may feel about the junior senator from Wisconsin, one good thing which ought to come out of the Army-McCarthy hearings is less political pull in the armed services.

Despite the dust thrown in the eyes of the public by McCarthy witnesses, there is no question but that Private Schine was coddled, pampered, babied and cotton-wooled by the Army, as no other private would have been had he not been the son of a wealthy hotel-theater magnate, and had he not had the backing of a powerful U. S. senator with broad subpoena powers. The manner in which the top brass treated him was un-American and disgraceful.

But if the McCarthy hearings have served to put a stop to Army politics they will have achieved a lot.

During more than a decade, this column has done its best to spotlight and expose armed services favoritism, whether in high places or low. Today, with every youngster in the U. S. A. subject to draft, all ought to be drafted on equal terms, and all ought to get the same treatment and same opportunities.

While armed-services pull has been exaggerated, it does exist; and here are some instances which should be banished completely in the future:

ARMY PULL

Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore got his son commissioned in the judge advocate general's office where he was not likely to see Korean combat. The mayor approached Sen. John Butler of Maryland, who approached the same Gen. Miles Reber who figure in McCarthy's request for a commission for Schine. As a result, young D'Alesandro was yanked out of basic training at Indiantown Gap, Pa., and given a direct commission.

Congressman Velde's son—In February, 1953, I reported that Congressman Velde, chairman of the House committee on un-American activities, was pulling wires to get his son transferred to Bolling Field after he graduated from the Air Force ROTC. Velde promptly called me a liar. However, Richard Velde later turned up at Bolling Field, a choice berth just 10 minutes from his father's office in Washington.

Senator O'Daniel's son—When "Pass-the-Biscuits Pappy" O'Daniel of Texas was in the Senate, his son Lee flunked out at officers' candidate school. Most privates who fail are immediately sent out into the ranks. But, thanks to an influential father, young O'Daniel got three different shots at officers' school. Finally, after flunking twice, he made it the third time, and was transferred to Fort Washington, D. C., right under his father's nose.

Parnell Thomas—One of the money-raising devices used by Congressman Parnell Thomas of New Jersey, who went to jail for taking salary kickbacks, was trying to transfer soldiers to lush posts and then collecting from their families. When Private E. A. Kimmel of Long Beach, N. Y., was about to be shipped overseas during the war, Thomas tried to get the Army to make him an undercover agent for the House committee on un-American activities and get him stationed in New York. The Army, skeptical, refused. But it never did send Kimmel to a combat area, and later Congressman Thomas tried to collect from Kimmel's father by selling him an insurance policy.

Thomas also tried to keep Private George Tipitz of New York City out of combat areas, and incidentally collected a total of $500 for his political campaigns.

MORE STARS FOR TOP BRASS

However, military politics is by no means confined to congressmen. Some of the worst politics has been pulled by the highest-ranking officers in the armed services.

When Douglas MacArthur was a brigadier general in the Philippines during the Harding administration he got his father-in-law, Edward T. Stotesbury of Philadelphia, a partner in the J. P. Morgan firm, to go to the War Department and tell Secretary of War John Weeks, father of Sinclair Weeks, the present secretary of commerce, that he wanted MacArthur promoted.

Stotesbury had been a heavy contributor to the Republican party. MacArthur got his promotion.

MacArthur was an aide to Secretary of War Newton Baker during part of the war and was advanced from the rank of major to brigadier general in one jump. After the war, he was the only brigadier general to keep his temporary wartime rank, but he had to do so much wire-pulling to keep it that Congress actually passed a law providing that future brigadier generals must be promoted only from the grade of colonel. The law was specifically aimed at preventing anyone else from duplicating what MacArthur did.

NAVY POLITICS

Politics can be just as important in the Navy. Last summer this column exposed the fact that Capt. George Hyman Rickover, developer of the atomic submarine, had been passed over by a selection board of admirals and was not to be promoted, partly because of his religion. Later Secretary of the Navy Robert Anderson stepped in, overruled the admirals, and promoted Rickover.

Last year, also, the Navy made a scapegoat of young Lieut. Comdr. Jerry McDaniel in connection with a strip-tease dance at Key West, Fla. He was confined to quarters and held virtually incommunicado for 40 days, pending trial. Meanwhile the chaplain who protested the strip-tease was transferred, but Adm. Irvin T. Duke and Capt. A. E. Buckley, the top commanders in charge, went unscathed.

The Factory Is Called Royce's But The Cars Are Famed Rolls

By TOM A. CULLEN

NEA Staff Correspondent

LONDON — (NEA) — On Broadway, Billy Rose drives one. So does one of Mao Tse-Tung's lieutenants in Red China—a specially-built job with bullet-proof glass.

It's not just that the Rolls-Royce is the world's most expensive standard motorcar. It has become a symbol of the world over of "class."

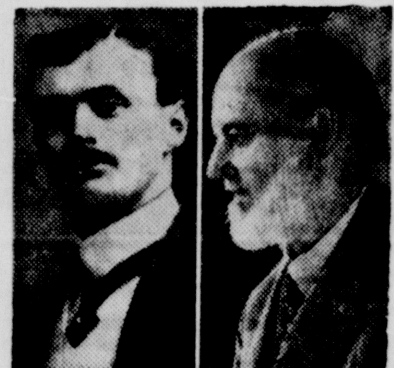

Recently, one of the strangest motorcades in history set out on a pilgrimage to Manchester, England. It included every make of Rolls-Royce from the sleek Continental, which does 80 m.p.h. in second gear, to a 1905 two-cylinder model which bears the original notice: "If this car breaks down don't ask damn silly questions."

A royal funeral procession? No, England was celebrating the meeting of Mr. Rolls and Mr. Royce over lunch in Manchester 50 years ago—a meeting, in its way, as famous as that of Stanley and Livingstone in darkest Africa.

For out of that meeting, over the brandy and cigars, grew the fleet of elegant models which bore the names of Silver Ghost, the Phantom, the Wraith.

From that meeting also, though neither man could foresee it, grew the Merlin engines (150,000 of them) which powered American and British aircraft to victory in World War II, which won the Battle of Britain hands down.

It would be hard to find two men as totally different as Rolls and Royce. (No one, incidentally, seems to know why their car wasn't named the Royce-Rolls. Those who work for the company in Derby say they work for "Royce's," while those fortunate enough to own one own a "Rolls.")

Henry Royce sold newspapers at the age of 10 to help support the family. He studied and starved to become an electrical engineer, until in 1903 he bought a second-hand French car and developed an itch to improve it.

Charles Stewart Rolls, on the other hand, nearly gagged on the silver spoon. The third son of Lord Llangatock, he was educated at Eton and Cambridge. Instead of choosing the leisure life of the aristocrat, however, he took a degree in mechanics and applied science. He also became a dare-devil motorist at 17.

"Horseless carriages" in those days were limited to a speed of four miles an hour behind a pedestrian with a red flag, who also cleared the road of livestock and poultry.

Meanwhile, Royce had made three 10 h.p. two-cylinder cars, with the help of a few hand-picked mechanics, some of whom are alive today. When Rolls first saw these models in Manchester, he was impressed with their silence and simplicity that he undertook to sell all that Royce could supply.

Rolls had his finger on the Edwardian pulse and knew the kind of car that was wanted by the aristocracy; Royce made it as mechanically perfect as he could.

For the motor show in 1906 Royce made a silver-plated 40-50 h.p. six-cylinder car which he believed to be the finest he had ever made. It was the Silver Ghost, the car that earned for Rolls-Royce the slogan "the best car in the world." Princes and maharajas—eventually, even Lenin—found it proper to own a Rolls Royce.

Sir Henry Royce once remarked, "Whether is rightly done, however humble, is the test." His successors have not forgotten his belief.

At about this time, Rolls, already a keen balloonist, met the Wright brothers and became one of Britain's pioneer aviators. He was killed while flying at Bourne-mouth in 1910—the first Englishman to be killed in a flying accident.

The same year Royce became seriously ill, and had to go to the south of France, where he designed the Eagle engine which powered more than half the aircraft in the first World War. He died in 1933, by then a baronet.

STORY OF A TOWN—If you were requested to write the story of your town in approximately 500 words, what would you put down as most important?

This reporter was asked by the Associated Press to describe Escanaba's "problems and accomplishments" since the end of World War II and did so in the following which has appeared in Michigan AP papers.

"Escanaba's postwar goal has been to bring metal industries into what was once a wood industry town."

"This Upper Peninsula city of 15,000 souls is achieving that goal."

"Escanaba now provides forest products, motor rebuilding, lumber, electric welding equipment, power excavators, concrete burial vaults, ornamental iron work and women's foundation garment industries."

"Largest of the postwar employers is Harnischfeger Corporation of Milwaukee. The firm has two plants manufacturing truck cranes and crawler excavators and employs 700 persons."

INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT — "Diversity of industry has been achieved through encouragement of the Escanaba Industrial Foundation and the Escanaba City Council."

"The city purchased idle buildings and acres and held them for future industries. The Industrial Foundation looks for industries interested in locating in Escanaba. Some are now operating in city-owned buildings under lease-purchase agreements."

"The city's deep-water harbor location on three highway trunklines and connection with three railways make it well favored transportation-wise."

THE POWER PROBLEM — "An electric power shortage is the most immediate problem."

"Two possible solutions are under study: 1—Contracting with a local electric cooperative to purchase power for 10 years; 2—Bonding the city for about $3,000,000 to finance a municipal power plant."

"Third possibility is that of power from a private company, which is now making a study before preparing a proposal to submit to the city."

"Escanaba has a new water pumping and filtration plant and a new propane gas plant. The city also owns an electric distribution system and a central steam heating plant."

ORE AND FISH — "Dating back to the city's birth in 1863 is Escanaba's railroad industry, now represented by the Chicago & North Western Railway's division headquarters and its ore shipping docks with an annual capacity of six million tons."

"Commercial fishing from adjacent Little Bay de Noc and Green Bay also is important to the local economy."

"Recreational facilities include 50 acres in parks, largely in Ludington Park on the bay shore. A bathing beach with a new beach house, yacht basin and yacht club house are located there. A bandshell will be constructed in 1955."

"Home of the annual Upper Peninsula State Fair, established in 1928, Escanaba by special agreement with the state uses the fair exhibition building for its winter ice show and hockey league games."

"But on one point there is disagreement. Some say Escanaba means 'land of the red buck.' But Eli P. Royce, the surveyor who gave the city its wide main street back in 1863, reported that it's an Indian word meaning 'flat rock.'"

ADDENDA—The above was the story carried by the Associated Press. Here is one additional material pertinent to the Escanaba story:

Assessed valuation of the city has doubled within the past 10 years, increasing from $7,916,875 in 1944 to $15,822,648 in 1954.

Escanaba has 17 churches and the population is reportedly equally divided between Roman Catholic and Protestant denominations in religious affiliation.

There are two school systems: The public schools, comprising two high schools, one technical school and five grade school buildings and with a sixth under construction; and the Catholic parochial schools comprising a new high school and four grade schools.

The schools have been recipients of gifts from two Escanaba benefactors: The late Mrs. Catherine Bonifas, widow of a wealthy lumberman, who willed approximately $2,000,000 to local benefactions; and John P. Norton, Escanaba Daily Press founder, who died in 1950 bequeathing his estate estimated at $500,000 to the public schools for scholarships.

Cancer Society Study Finds That Cigarette Smokers Die Younger

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Cigarette smokers die sooner than other men aged 50-to-70 and they die mainly from heart attacks and cancer, an American Cancer Society study reported.

It finds cigarettes have an effect on other types of cancer as well as lung cancer. Numerically, the biggest effect could be in heart disease, since far more people die of coronary disease than die of lung cancer.

Just what the effect of cigarette is upon men under 50 or upon women can only be guessed at until more studies are made, the authors of the report said.

Up 75 Per Cent

The report is based upon interviews in 1952 with 187,766 healthy men aged 50 to 70 about their smoking habits, and a checkup upon causes of death of 4,854 of them who died within 20 months.

It shows the death rate — from all causes — among the cigarette smokers to be up to 75 per cent higher than among the men who never smoked.

For men who smoked a pack-a-day of cigarettes or more, the death rate from heart disease and cancer is at certain ages double that of non-smokers.

The risk seems to rise the more cigarettes are smoked.

Smoking only a pipe or only cigars doesn't seem to affect the death rates except possibly for cancer in general, but this possibility

Chicago Police Recover $15,032

CHICAGO (AP) — A suitcase containing $15,032 in bonds and checks vanished Sunday night when the owner, a retired railroad section hand, set it down for a moment to get a drink of fruit juice at a stand in the North Western station.

Police recovered it for Peder Berentson, 72, by the laborious process of touring the neighborhood west of the Loop and stopping everyone carrying such a suitcase. The fourth man they stopped, Hugh Binns, 54, had the right bag. Binns has been charged with grand larceny.

Berentson, formerly of Minneapolis and recently of Clearwater, Fla., said he recognized Binns as a man he talked to in the station shortly before the bag disappeared. Binns said he "gave the man a buck for the bag."

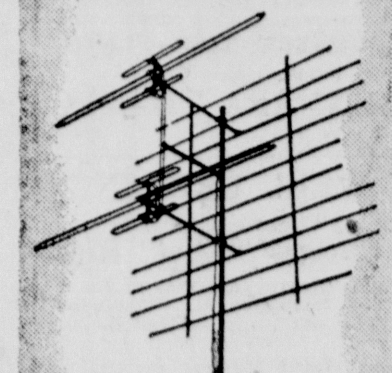

Berentson said he retired to Clearwater in 1947 after working for the Great Northern railroad for 27 years as a section hand. He said he was on his way to Reno. The bonds and checks represented his life's savings.

needs further study, the report said.

Cigarettes have been blamed by some scientific reports as a cause of an alarming rise in lung cancer, especially in men.

Today's report is the first disclosure of any findings from a long-awaited ACS study which set out to learn about any effects from smoking on cancer or other diseases.

Survey Includes Michigan

It says it finds evidence cigarettes could have a cause-and-effect relationship with heart attacks and cancer.

The findings were reported to the American Medical Assn. by Drs. E. Cuyler Hammond and Daniel Horn, director and assistant director of statistical research of the ACS.

They said they had not expected to have significant results for another year.

The interviewing was done by 22,000 trained ACS volunteers in nine states — New Jersey, Pennsylvania, New York, Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa and California.

Some main points of their statistical breakdown:

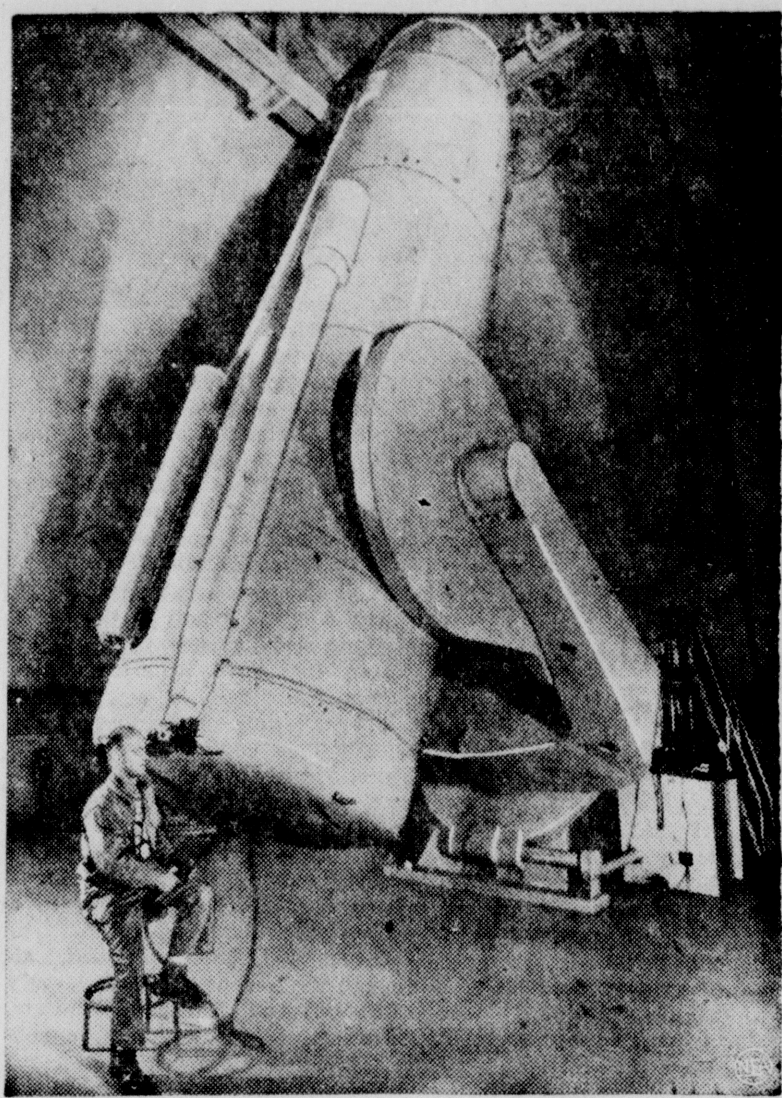

Deaths from all causes were 65 per cent higher among cigarette smokers only compared with non-smokers in the age group 50-54; 60 per cent higher among those 55-59; 102 per cent higher among those 60-64, and 30 per cent higher in those 65-69.

Rate Twice As High

But for a pack-a-day smokers compared with non-smokers, the death rate from all causes was 102 per cent higher among those 50-54; 86 per cent higher in those 55-59; 108 per cent higher among those 60-64, and 21 per cent higher among those 65-69 years old.

Death rates from heart attacks were twice as high among Pack-a-day smokers aged 50 to 64 as compared with non-smokers. Among men 65 to 69 years old, there was not much difference.

Fewer men, percentage-wise, in the 65 to 69 age group had been inveterate cigarette smokers as against those 50 to 64, the report said. And perhaps more of the heavy smokers had already succumbed to heart attacks or other ailments before reaching the 65 to 69 year span, it added.

The survey is expected to produce the first definitive sky atlas ever made, out to a depth of more than 500 million light years from the earth. The atlas will include a total of 1758 14-inch-square photographs. In case you want one, the cost is expected to be from $1600 to $2000 a copy.

Korean Veteran Jailed As AWOL

RICHMOND, Ind. (AP)—Cpl. Richard Jett, a Korean veteran who was a prisoner of the Communists 20 months, was held in jail today as a deserter from the Army.

The 22-year-old Richmond career soldier was in a cell at the Wayne County Jail, not far from the victorious parade route over which he rode last Sept. 5 when Richmond welcomed him and two other former POWs home.

FBI agents and Richmond police seized Jett Monday a few blocks from the home of an uncle, Oliver Johnson, with whom he had lived since boyhood.

Leonard Blacklock, agent in charge of the Indianapolis FBI office, said Jett had been AWOL from now-closed Camp Atterbury, Ind., since last Jan. 27.

In October, Jett, still thin from his ordeal in a camp on the Yalu River, reenlisted in the Army for a six-year hitch. He had married and planned to make the service a career.

Blacklock said Jett told agents he and his wife, lived for a time at Lexington, Ky., after the alleged desertion. Jett got a job in a dairy there for a time then lost it.

Blacklock said. They returned to Richmond.

Jett will be returned to military control probably Wednesday and taken to Ft. Harrison at Indianapolis, the FBI said.

THE PASTOR LABORS—The Rev. John F. Rose, pastor of the Northwood Chapel in Kalamazoo, handles blocks as well as the Bible. Four years ago he built the chapel in the rear. Now, needing more room for his expanding congregation, he's hard at work each day laying a cement block addition. He's well acquainted with mortar and trowel because he used to be a contractor. Midsummer Festival Held At Rock Draws Large Attendance

The annual Finnish Midsummer Festival at the Finn Hall, in Rock, was well attended over the weekend by people from Rock, Ishpeming, Negaunee and Marquette.

The festivities began Saturday evening with a dance at the hall. Lunch was served from 11:30 a. m. to 1 p. m. Sunday. A program was presented in the afternoon.

The numbers were:

Piano selection, Pat Seppala.
Vocal selections, Toivo Rinnet of Superior, Wis., brother of Mrs. Albert Ahlgren.

Poem by Nilo Fahler.
Talk by Arne Johnson.

Accordions solos by Butch Tapola.
Finnish songs by Reino Kiiskinen.

Comic songs by Kalle Filppila of Marquette.

Master of ceremonies was Sulo Peltola.

A four-act Finnish play presented Sunday night by a local cast concluded the festival. The play was well received with about 150 attending the performance.

Frank Campbell visited with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Haas in Birmingham, Mich., several days. Upon his return, he was accompanied by Mrs. Campbell who had spent the winter and spring months there with her sister and brother-in-law.

Wall Street

NEW YORK (AP)—Tobacco shares were under strong selling pressure today. Otherwise, the stock market advanced briskly with volume substantially above two million shares.

Monday, the American Cancer Society reported a link between cigarette smoking and cancer and heart disease.

Liggett & Myers dropped more than 3 points and Philip Morris was down 2 1/2 points at one time. Lorillard and Reynolds tobacco "B" eased more than a point.

But other parts of the stock market tended to climb. Financial circles were said to be interpreting the Federal Reserve Board's reduction of commercial bank reserves an inflationary move. It will release many billions of additional dollars of bank credit through the economy.

Fractionally higher were U. S. Steel, Studebaker, Goodyear, Goodrich, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, United Aircraft, Radio Corp., Commonwealth Edison, American Cyanamid, International Paper, Atlantic Coast Line and Texas Co.

Tilted lower were Bethlehem Steel, Packard, Boeing, Schenley, National Distillers, Philco, American Woollen, American Smelting, United Airlines and American telephone.

Most U. S. government bonds climbed to record highs, reacting to the federal reserve's lowering of bank reserve requirements.

Miss Nancy Jones Is The Bride Of Hugo Kestila

ROCK—Hugo Kestila, former resident of Rock, claimed Miss Nancy Helen Jones as his bride Saturday, June 19 in a double ring ceremony at 4 p. m. at the Wesley Methodist Church in Ishpeming. The bride was given in marriage by her father in a candlelight ceremony. The vows were spoken before the Rev. Stockinger.

The bride's gown was of white slipper satin with lace bodice and a chapel length train. The long sleeves tapered to the wrist. A taria of seed pearls held her fingertip veil. Her only jewelry was a double strand necklace of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John V. Jones of Ishpeming. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kestila of Ishpeming and Rock are parents of the bridegroom.

Bridal Attendants

The attendants were matron of honor, a sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Leslie Lehtinen and bridesmaids, Miss Kay De Petro and Miss Barbara DePetro, cousins of the bride. They all wore identical gowns of net covered taffeta of orchid, yellow and pale green respectively. Their bouquets were of roses and mums. Their headpieces were of fresh cut flowers.

Flower girls, Judith Lehtinen, niece of the bridegroom, and Allyson Hyeth, wore identical gowns of yellow and green respectively. They carried baskets filled with sweet peas. Their head bands were of mums and sweet peas.

Best man was Marvin Peterson. Leslie Lehtinen, brother-in-law of the bridegroom and Reino Kestila, brother of the groom were groomsmen. Alan Jones, brother of the bride and Ronald Lehtinen served as ushers.

Miss Jean Solberg sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Following the ceremony a wedding supper was held at the VFW clubrooms for friends and relatives. A reception followed the supper with a dance in the evening concluding the wedding festivities.

Will Live In Ishpeming

The newlyweds will make their home at 417 Pearl St. in Ishpeming.

Out-of-town guests included residents of Rock, Detroit, Kipling, Escanaba, Marquette, Negaunee, Palmer, Diorite and National Mine.

A pre-nuptial shower was given in honor of the bride at Jackson Lodge in Negaunee with Clarice DePetro, Jean Steede, Nancy St. Aubin, Lois Waters and Barbara and Kay DePetro acting as hostesses.

During the rehearsal dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kestila, gifts were presented to the attendants and ushers. The men received tie clasps while the matron of honor and bridesmaids were presented with rhinestone necklaces. The flower girls each received a gold cross.

Europe Makes Gains In Trade, Industry While U.S.A. Slips

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Eisenhower and Churchill are talking things over again this week—in an economic atmosphere that has changed markedly since their last meeting. John Bull's needs aren't as urgent. Uncle Sam's purse isn't as bulging.

Political turmoil between the East and West may be greater today. But Europe's dollar gap isn't showing much now. And its industrial and currency problems are a lot less pressing.

There's even talk that in a few months England's pound sterling may again be strong enough to walk alone, freely convertible with the dollar—if a reserve fund to bolster it is set up, just in case.

Controls On Farm Production To Be Tightened In 1955

ing used to produce what may turn out to be excessive supplies of soybeans, flaxseed, oats, rye, barley, grain sorghums, dry beans and vegetables.

In 1955, the department plans to issue individual planting allotments for wheat, cotton, corn, tobacco, peanuts and sugar crops. A farmer must comply with all such allotments that may be assigned to him or lose all price support loans.

Aimed At Surpluses

In addition, farmers asked to reduce plantings of these allotment crops by more than 10 acres in all will be given "total acreage allotments" for their cash crops. To get price support aid, they must stay within these total allotments and also comply with all individual crop allotments.

This requirement is designed to prevent increases in 1955 acreages of such non-allotment crops as soybeans, flaxseed, oats, rye, barley, grain sorghums, potatoes, dry beans and vegetables above the 1953 levels. Thus, many farmers would be under pressure to cut back on some of these latter crops as well as the allotment crops.

In announcing the controls, Benson voiced dislike for such curbs but said he had no other "immediate" choice. The government must take steps, he said, to reduce production to the size of declining post war markets.

The secretary said he had no idea how long it may be necessary to continue rigid controls. He said flexible price supports advocated by the administration would hasten the day when agricultural production matched markets. He said the present high, rigid supports have encouraged overproduction at a time when it was not needed. The issue of flexible versus rigid supports is pending in Congress, where there is strong opposition to the flexible plan.

Carol M. Morin And John Walker In Bridal Rites

Pink peonies and snapdragons adorned the main altar of St. George's Church in Bark River June 19 for the double ceremony at which Miss Carol Marie Morin of Bark River became the bride of John Walker of Detroit.

The parents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Morin and Mr. and Mrs. Leon Walker.

Father Joseph J. Dunleavy solemnized the 9 a. m. Nuptial High Mass. The music was sung by St. George's Choir accompanied by Mrs. Stacia Bergman. At the close of the service as the bride placed her bouquet on the altar of the Blessed Mother, the choir members sang "On This Day O Beautiful Mother." Servers of the Mass which took place on the 21st wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Morin were Kenneth Briere of Wells and Jerry Groff of Escanaba, cousins of the bride.

Chapel Lenth Gown

A chapel length gown of white was worn by the bride who was given in marriage by her father. The bodice was lace with long, tapered sleeves and the bouffant skirt was net over taffeta. A royal crown of seed pearls and rhinestones held her fingertip veil. Her jewelry was a triple strand of pearls, the bridegroom's gift. She carried a heart shaped bouquet of white roses and feathered carnations.

Identical gowns and matching headpieces were worn by the bridal attendants. The gowns were ballerina length of lace and net over satin styled with scalloped necklines and cap sleeves. Miss Millie Levesque, maid of honor, wore maize. Miss Nancy Walker, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Margaret Rush of Detroit and Miss Joann Kleiman, bridesmaids, were in pink, blue and Nile green. Their gold cross and chain necklaces were gifts of the bride. They carried heart shaped bouquets of matching flowers.

A brother of the bridegroom A/2c Leon Walker of Fort Custer, was best man. Ushering were A/2c Don Taylor of Eglin AFB, Florida, F/Sgt. Robert Radell of Hollywood, Fla., and Robert W. Johnson of Bark River.

Dinner and Reception

The mother of the bride attended the wedding attired in a two-piece dress of tissue faille with white accessories and a corsage of pink and white carnations. The bridegroom's mother chose a blue nylon print with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

A dinner for the immediate family members was served at Potvin's Fireside Room at 12:30 and a reception was held from 5 to 8 in the Colonial Room at Tom Swifts. A four-tiered wedding cake centered the table. Assisting in serving were Miss Jean Walker, Mrs. Paul Levesque, Mrs. Ernest Briere and Miss Evelyn Bergstrom. A wedding dance at the Bark River Hall followed the reception.

The couple will live in Detroit following their honeymoon. For going-away the bride wore a beige suit with white accessories and a corsage of white roses.

Attending Wedding

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Britton of Rhinelander, Mr. and Mrs. Len Taylor, Miss Joanne Vertin and Miss Pat Searles of Detroit, Mrs. Coleta Schulte, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Briere, Mr. and Mrs. George Sadjak, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Poliak and Richard Briere of Milwaukee, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Thexton, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Junak, Mrs. Roy DeLongchamp, Paul DeLongchamp and Mrs. George Junak of Ishpeming, Mrs. Noel Briere of Green Bay, Miss Nancy Gauthier of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Nault of Neenah and other relatives and friends of Escanaba, Wells and Schaffer.

RECEIVES MASTER'S—Miss Anna Mae Loveland recently received her master of social work degree from the University of Denver, and has taken a position as psychiatric social worker at the Mental Health Centers in Chicago beginning July 1. Miss Loveland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bradford B. Loveland, 515 2nd Ave. S., is a former resident of Escanaba.

Gladys Wentland, Leonard Worzella Exchange Vows

Miss Gladys Wentland of Milwaukee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wentland, Wilson, became the bride of Leonard Worzella of Milwaukee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Worzella, Milladore, Wis., Saturday, June 19, at 10:30 a. m. in a nuptial ceremony performed by the Rev. Walter Franczek at St. Francis Xavier Church, Spalding.

Bridal attendants were Miss Shirley Worzella, sister of the bridegroom, as maid of honor, and the bridesmaid, Miss Janet Wentland, sister of the bride. Attending the bridegroom were the best man, Ted Struk, of Arpin, Wis., and the groomsmen Earl Wentland, a brother of the bride.

A ballerina length gown of white lace and net styled with a fitted lace bodice and a full net skirt inserted with lace panels was worn by the bride. Completing her ensemble, was a lace jacket fashioned with a peter pan collar. Her veil of fingertip length was edged in lace. She carried a lavender orchid with white carnations.

Identical gowns of yellow and blue in ballerina length were worn by the maid of honor and bridesmaid. The gowns were designed with lace bodices and bouffant skirts of net with net stoles. They carried mixed bouquets of yellow, white and pink carnations.

Following the marriage, a wedding breakfast was held at the home of the bride's parents. At noon, the wedding dinner was served at the Charles Behrend's, where the wedding reception was held from 3 p. m. to 5 p. m.

The newlyweds will reside in Milwaukee where Mr. Worzella is employed as a printer. The bride is a graduate of Powers-Spalding High School.

THE FORMER Audrey Marie Boucher of Menominee and Dr. Joseph Wolter Cleary of Milwaukee and Escanaba repeated their marriage vows in a ceremony June 19 at St. Adalbert's Catholic Church in the bride's home city. The couple will reside in Milwaukee where Dr. Cleary is a resident physician at St. Joseph's Hospital.

League Of Women Voters Will Study Council-Manager Plan

The study item for the coming year as proposed by the executive board of the Escanaba League of Women Voters: "Development of Measures Which Contribute to Sound Council-Manager Government in Escanaba" was adopted unanimously by the general membership of the League at both the afternoon and evening unit meetings yesterday.

A preview of what ground will be covered and how it will be done in studying this item was given by Mrs. Robert Mosenfelder who is study item chairman. She pointed out that the league program is one of both study and action but emphasized that the study comes first. After sufficient study of this item the League then will be in a position to take definite action for measures to better the council-manager form of government in Escanaba or to oppose changes that might lessen the effectiveness of this type of city government, she said.

Mrs. Russell Johnson, League president, warned the members to bear in mind that "We are not making this study to collect facts to bolster opinions we may already have. We must approach the study with an open mind."

University Study

According to material prepared by the Bureau of Government at the University of Michigan as reported by Mrs. Mosenfelder there are four types of city government: the weak-mayor, the strong-mayor, the commission and the council-manager types. Escanaba has the council-manager type.

In this type of government according to the University of Michigan study a small council is elected by the people at large and is responsible for policy-making. A city manager is appointed by the council. He is a trained person, responsible to the council for the operation of the city. The charter clearly defines the powers of the council and those of the manager.

In the university study the council-manager form of city government was referred to as the most "businesslike and efficient." The council was compared to "the board of directors of a corporation who have the task of determining policy and selecting a general manager; the actual day-to-day operations are left to the general manager." The manager is given full authority for running the city. He appoints the department heads. They are responsible to him.

Number Is Increasing

According to this study between 25 per cent and 27 per cent of cities of 5000 or over have the council-manager type of government but the number of council-manager cities is increasing rapidly as new charters are being granted. Only Maine and California have a larger number of council-manager cities than Michigan. "Up to the time of the study in 1949 only 35 cities had ever abandoned the council-manager plan," the report states. "Where abandonments have occurred, they are accounted for by charters which are defective in safeguarding the manager's position, opposition by political interests, and a lack of continued citizen support."

Before adjourning the League voted unanimously not to discontinue the meetings during July and August but to continue them on a curtailed basis. The units will meet jointly in the evening, the third Monday of both months.

New Social Security Program Takes Shape

(By Congressional Quarterly)
WASHINGTON—(CQ)—A House Committee is at work on legislation that's almost certain to affect your future security.

The Committee is Ways and Means, and it is "marking up" the Social Security Act amendments of 1954.

Back in 1935, when Franklin D. Roosevelt signed the Social Security Act, he called it "a cornerstone in a structure which is being built but is by no means complete."

Since the Act became law, it has been refurbished by succeeding Congresses. The Eisenhower Administration repeatedly has called for its remodeling.

About 250 bills have been introduced in the 83rd Congress (1953-54) pertaining to social security. Two, written by the Health, Education and Welfare Department in line with Eisenhower recommendations and introduced by Ways and Means Chairman Daniel A. Reed (R. N. Y.), seem most likely to get detailed study.

One of the two is the bill calling for Social Security Act amendments which the committee is preparing for House debate. It carries the Administration's proposal for revising the Old Age and Survivors Insurance program. The other bill which may get consideration would reshape the Public Assistance program of federal grants to states for care of the needy.

Chairman Reed told Congressional Quarterly his Committee would try to report out the OASI amendments even if it did not have time to consider public assistance revision, on which no hearings have been held, at this session.

Proposed OASI Changes

Here are main provisions of the Administration's OASI bill, compared with present law:

It would extend coverage for retirement and survivor's benefits to 10.5 million more persons, including farmers, hired hands, professionals, domestics, clergymen, state and local government employees and small groups.

Increase minimum benefit payments from $25 to $30 and family benefits from $168.75 to $190.

Raise worker's annual earnings base on which tax is collected and benefits paid, from $3,600 to $4,200.

Drop four years of lowest earnings in computing average monthly earnings for determining benefits, instead of averaging wage for all working years.

Raise annual exempt amount (now $75 a month) for both wage-earners and self-employed retirees so they can earn $1,000 a year without losing OASI payments.

Disregard time during which worker is totally disabled in determining eligibility status and benefits. Long-term disability now may cause loss of insured status and benefits.

The Administration's Public Assistance bill also would change the formula for grants to states for the aged, dependent children, the blind and disabled. The grant would be a percentage of total cost based on per capita income of the state. For the aged, the federal share would be reduced by the amount of persons drawing OASI payments.

When Oveta Sulp Hobby, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, presented her case for the Administration OASI bill before the Committee in April, she said, "The first conclusion the Department came to in its study . . . was the soundness of its basic concepts—that contributions of the workers themselves, and their employers, should support the system, and that benefits should have a relationship to the individual worker's past earnings."

The Administration apparently can count on considerable support from Democrats in Congress. On Jan. 13, the day before President Eisenhower made his specific recommendations, 61 House Democrats outlined a "minimum" social security program similar in its objectives to that offered by Mr. Eisenhower.

Group Positions Conflict

Another philosophy has support of some Congressmen and business groups. The national Chamber of Commerce would extend OASI coverage to all workers, pay benefits to all aged, and old age public assistance, and finance benefits on a pay-as-you-go basis.

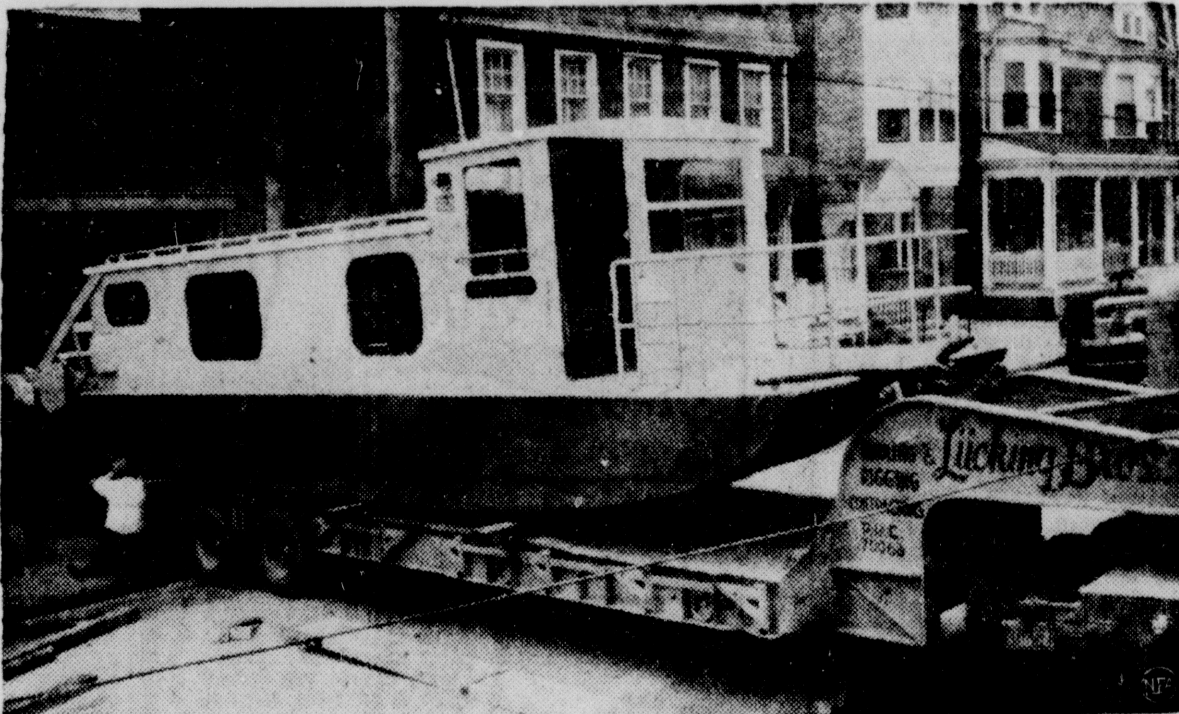

The Chamber of Commerce of the U. S. argues that universal coverage is merely an extension of the principle followed in previous amendments that extended coverage. The Chamber says OASI is not in reality insurance, that benefits for each generation are paid by taxes on the succeeding generation, that financing benefits pay-as-you-go would set up a direct relationship between income and outgo.

Legislation embodying many of the points in the Chamber plan is still "alive" and Rep. Reed said he hasn't discounted the possibility that it may receive consideration. Rep. Carl T. Curtis (R. Neb.), who headed Ways and Means' special Social Security Subcommittee which held hearings last year, said that his bill revision is similar but not identical to the Chamber proposal, and both have figured in a long controversy.

Labor organizations charge the Chamber's plan would wreck the OASI fund by paying everyone benefits whether or not they have contributed. They say the present system of paying the cost by equal taxes on payrolls and paychecks should be preserved.

At committee hearings, American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations spokesmen said the Administration proposal was all right but didn't go far enough. They called for higher benefits, a larger earnings base for OASI tax purposes and cash benefits to disabled.

But the Council of State Chambers of Commerce has recommended a "single federal social purpose program" to replace OASI

Schools Get Final State Aid Payment

LANSING (AP)—The final payment of state aid to the public schools for the past school year was mailed to county treasurers by Auditor General John B. Martin Monday.

The payment totaled $10,351,071. Martin said the distribution for the year was $100,341,576, a reduction of $1,093,341 from the preceding year. He said the reduction results from the automatic operation of the sales tax diversion formula.

Japan Trade Slips

TOKYO (AP)—A Japanese government white paper has urged citizens to tighten their belts as a result of "a marked worsening" of the nation's international trade situation.

and public assistance grants. In a May 2 statement, the Council also recommended a pay-as-you-go basis, opposed the President's proposals to broaden the present program, and said Social Security benefits should not be increased "to a point which would reduce the incentive for people to provide for their own security."

Cancer Curable, Speaker States

Most cancers are curable providing they are found in time and proper treatment obtained, Dr. James Dehlin told Rotarians yesterday noon in a follow up of the two films on the subject shown to the club a week ago.

Various methods now available to check for cancer during physical examination were related by the speaker who also told of the various methods of treatment, depending on location and type of the malignancy.

Statistics which revealed the increase in deaths from this cause among the people of this nation were quoted by the speaker, who said that increase in cancer of the lung was also becoming considerably greater.

Dr. Dehlin expressed the belief that eventually drugs may be found with which to treat the dread disease and he described experiments now being made along that line.

Periodic examination so that it may be caught early was advised by the speaker, who said that much as he hated to admit it the fact remains that when cancer is found in doctors or nurses it is in a more advanced state than in the average layman.

Freeman Empson and Henry Fieldseth, Eveleth, Minn., were guests at the meeting.

Rotary Hears Editor Discuss Press Freedoms

Meeting Monday noon at the Elks' lodge, Manistique Rotarians heard Ken L. Gunderman, editor of the Escanaba Daily Press, discuss "Your Right to Freedom".

Gunderman referred to freedom of the press as "the anchor of all freedom in America," and went on to explain that this freedom "is not a special privilege granted to those in the newspaper fraternity."

Rather, the editor stated this freedom is guaranteed by the Constitution and also embraces all other freedoms mentioned in the Bill of Rights. All the freedoms, Gunderman said, "are welded together by the American press in a militant determination to preserve them."

The speaker pointed to the abridgements of freedom of the press of totalitarian governments as being the first step in the abolishment of civil liberties. He spoke of a constant vigilance necessary to safeguard a nation's freedoms, since the forces that threaten freedoms are always at hand.

Gunderman drew on the case of John Peter Zenger, an eighteenth century New York printer, for an illustration of the first successful defense of the public's right to know and a publisher's right to publish his opinions.

The case itself was one of supposed seditious libel action. When it was shown that Zenger had criticized with a background of true facts, the jury acquitted the printer.

Gunderman went on to discuss present-day criminal libel situations and stated that "free government cannot exist without freedom of discussion." Truth, of course, remains as a "complete defense in libel action and motive and purpose are immaterial."

The editor concluded by calling the most serious threat to press freedom that of "the reluctance of many persons, and particularly those in public office, to provide the information that the people have a right to know."

Gunderman was introduced by Carl Olson and Carl Carlson presided at the meeting.

Hospital Reports Reveal Gentilini's Condition Critical

"No improvement" was reported by Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital officials in the "critical condition" of Frank Gentilini, Munising, injured early Sunday morning in a car driven by Kenneth Robert King, also of Munising.

Patrick Trenton, also Munising, is reported in "fairly good" condition by hospital authorities. He also was a passenger in King's car which swerved to avoid a deer one-half mile north of U. S. Route 2 on Federal Highway 13. King's automobile rolled-over and struck a tree.

Gentilini suffered fractures of collar bone and shoulder besides being paralyzed from the shoulder down. Trenton is being hospitalized for a fracture of the front part of his skull.

King was uninjured in the accident, except for bruises. His car was badly wrecked.

CLEVELAND (AP)—And so Eddie Joost and Gus Zernial were reconciled and the Philadelphia Athletics lived happily ever after.

The time element in that Statement is somewhat exaggerated but the fact remains since manager Joost reinstated Zernial in the A's lineup following their recent flare-up, the A's have won seven of nine games.

Moreover, Big Gus has been playing better than ever. He's hit safely five times in ten trips to the plate. And he was largely responsible for three of the Philadelphia wins. Joost hopes he does as well against the first place Cleveland Indians tonight.

Sacrifice Fly Boosts Averages Three Points

By BEN OLAN
NEW YORK (AP)—The sacrifice fly, revived after 14 years to hike baseball's batting averages, is doing its job in a big league way.

An Associated Press survey disclosed today that the restored rule generally has increased hitting percentages three points over what they would have been without the regulation.

A total of 314 sacrifice flies have been hit in the majors, lifting the overall average in both circuits from .257 to .260. The National League has accounted for 160 SF's and the American 154.

Three players — Gil Hodges of Brooklyn, Andy Pafko of Milwaukee and Mickey Vernon of Washington — have better-than-.300 averages because of the sacrifice fly.

Hodges Has Eight
Hodges, the Dodgers' strapping first baseman, has hit the most sacrifice flies in the major leagues, eight. He is 11 points to the good, with a current mark of .309. He would be batting .298 under last year's rules.

Pafko, with four sacrifice flies, is batting .303 and Vernon, also with four, is at .301. Andy, without his sacrifice fly total, would be at .297 and Vernon at .296.

The revived regulation gives a sacrifice fly, instead of a time at bat, to a player who scores another with a fair fly ball. It was written into the rules last November after being dropped prior to the 1940 season.

Boone Not Helped
Others who show a decided profit from sacrifice flies are Al Rosen of the Indians, Red Schoendienst and Ray Jablonski of the Cardinals.

When the rule was revived, experts said that long ball hitters would benefit the most from it. Yet Mickey Mantle of the Yankees, Ralph Kiner of the Cubs and Ray Boone of the Tigers have still to hit their first sacrifice fly.

Little Mo Rated Cinch To Repeat

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Maureen Connolly — regarded as the tennis world's nearest thing to a dead certainty — begins the defense of her Wimbledon title today on the ivy entwined center court.

The hope of Wimbledon officials is that her opponent, Miss J. Scott of South Africa, will be able to make a match out of it.

For the last couple of years the early round players against Miss Connolly were frightened and nervous before they even took to the court against San Diego's "Little Mo," who is aiming for her third straight Wimbledon singles championship.

The second seeded, Doris Hart, Coral Gables, Fla., will open against George Woodgate, a British player.

Monday's opening play in the men's singles at this tennis mill cut down the field without producing any surprises.

Tony Trabert, the crop-haired star from Cincinnati, had an easy 6-0, 6-2, 6-2 victory over Britain's Paul Wooler. Trabert is the favorite to take the singles title. Defending champion Vic Seixas of Philadelphia also had an easy time defeating Britain's Geoffrey Cass 6-1, 6-0, 6-1.

Softball Roster Deadline Set; Cuties Are Coming

Deadline for rosters of Escanaba softball teams is Tuesday, July 6, president Tom Dufour of the Escanaba Softball Association told league managers and representatives at a meeting last night.

Rosters must be submitted by the Association to state softball headquarters in Lansing.

The Association announced an exhibition game to be held at Memorial Field on July 24 which will feature the Compton Cuties, a traveling team that has toured the country with great success in recent years.

The Cuties, a team of men who play in women's clothes, are a comedy group but play softball with the best teams in the country. They boast a 36-inch midget pitcher.

The team that is leading the American League standing on July 10 will face the Cuties in the exhibition.

It was also announced last night that the American League teams with byes will play on Tuesday nights in non-league games.

Like Shot Out Of A Cannon

Runners Hold When Mays Throws

NEW YORK (NEA)—A group of fellows were sitting around a big table in the Giants' dressing room and looking out the windows at the green Polo Grounds center field turf.

They were talking about throwing and Garry Schumacher, the front office man, was talking about some of the better arms he had seen.

"Joe Moore," he said quietly. "He could throw real good for us. So could Hank Lieber. The old Braves had a guy, Gene Moore, who got you out, too. Then of course you got Ottie (Mel Ott) and the guy in Brooklyn, that Carl Furillo."

"Yeah," said Sal Maglie, "I guess they could throw, but you just give me Willie. You just put him in there behind me and nobody's gonna score on fly balls off old Sal. He just throws the ball in there like it was shot out of a cannon."

"I was just putting in those names for conversation," Schumacher said. "When you begin to pin-point it, you got to come out with Willie. He just throws it as if he were handing you the ball. No effort at all—only he throws the thing a quarter of a mile. You got to look pretty good to see if anybody else had anything better."

Mays began to chase high fungoes
"How do I know a ball?" Willie said. "Well, I got my own way to do the thing. I catch the ball different. I mean I'm talking about a routine high fly now with a man on third. Line drives and balls you got to chase—you catch them any way you can."

"But on the fly that a man tries to score on, I catch the ball down at my belt line and over to the right side a bit. Like a basket catch. Most guys say you've got to reach up for the ball. I don't show 'boat catchin' it down here. I do it for a reason."

"When I catch the ball, my throwing arm is low. Right with my glove. All I have to do is whip it up and throw. I don't have to catch the ball up around my neck, then bring my arm down and then up again to throw. I save time.

"I didn't pick this up overnight. Took me two years to learn to catch a ball right this way. It's the hardest way to do it."

How, Willie was asked, does he throw. Does he have any special way of heaving the ball to nip guys at the plate or on the bases? "Naw," was his answer. "I just throw it overhand. I grip the ball on the seams with these two fingers here—my index and middle finger—and throw real overhand."

"I always try to be moving when I catch the ball," Willie was asked about some of his more remarkable throws — pegs which have been passed around the league until third base coaches now act as traffic lights — red ones — when he is set to heave.

"Oh, that's for you fellas to know," Willie said. "I don't know 'bout things like that. I just get 'em and let 'em go."

Mays threw out Billy Cox of the Dodgers during the big 1951 stretch drive after robbing Carl Furillo of a two-base hit to right center field. He whirled and threw on a line. They'll be talking of that one for a couple of lifetimes, mentioning it as one of the all-time great plays.

All-Star Game Ballot

Here's your chance to assist in the selection of the starting lineups for the All-Star Game to be played in Cleveland on July 13.

Fill out the accompanying blank with the players you think should appear in the starting lineups of the American and National league clubs and mail it to the Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill. The starting pitchers will be named by the managers—Casey Stengel of the A. L. and Walt Alston of the N. L.

If you haven't sent in your All-Star Game ballot, clip it out of this page today and mail it to the sports editor, Chicago Tribune . . . A number of readers had asked us to run such a ballot for the convenience of baseball fans who were interested . . . Today is the last day the item will run in the Press so if you want to use it, do it now.

George Mauli, manager of the Hermansville American Legion baseball team, is seeking games for his club in this area . . . Any teams desiring to play on a home-and-home basis may contact him.

John Berrigan pitched a poised game for the Esby Cubs in beating Stephenson here Sunday afternoon . . . In giving up three hits, Berrigan scattered the safeties in the first, third and fourth innings and was seldom in trouble . . . He whiffed six batsmen.

Most of the managers of teams in the Tri County, Bay de Noc and Waubung baseball loops report their games on the dot Monday mornings . . . But we're still missing some of the key games because managers fail to call in and we can't locate them by phone . . . League commissioners have promised to crack down on the lax teams so that their circuits will receive the publicity they deserve.

To Ivor Willcock, Manistique: The records you ask about are not available . . . Upper Peninsula track and field records officially date back only to 1941, previous to which only state records were recorded . . . The state 100-yard dash record is 9.9 seconds, set by Robert Swain of East Grand Rapids in 1945 (in Class B) while two down-state Class A runners share a 9.8 record . . . Boxing records for the years you mention are not available here.

Landy Doubts He Can Run Mile Distance Any Faster

By STIG HAEGGBLOM

TURKU, Finland (AP)—John Landy, the second man in history to crash the four-minute mile barrier, rested today after his record-shattering 3:58 performance and announced that he probably would do no better—at least for this year.

"I have kept my present top shape for more than nine months," said the 24-year-old Australian. "Now I believe some sort of reaction will set in. I think I have done what I can do for this year."

Will Race Bannister

But he left no doubt that he was looking forward to his duel in the British Empire Games next month with Roger Bannister of England, whose 3:59.4 performance he broke in the blazing sun of Turku Stadium Monday. Bannister crashed the barrier less than two months ago.

"I'm almost too happy to be able to speak," said Landy, whose breathtaking career has included nine mile races of under 4:03. "If it hadn't been for Chris Chataway chasing me around the track I never would have made it."

Ironically, Chataway, an Englishman, was the runner who pushed Bannister to his 3:59.5 effort.

Another World Record

In the process of breaking the mile record, Landy also lowered the world 1,500-meter mark to 3:41.8. Both records must be recognized by the International Amateur Athletic Federation, but there was no doubt that the recognition would be a mere formality.

Landy changed his tactics slightly Monday. Instead of setting the pace all the way as he usually does, he hung back in second place until just before the half-mile mark and finished in a blaze of speed. He showed no signs of exhaustion as spectators carried him from the stadium on their shoulders.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)
Batting—Willie Mays, New York Giants, clouted his 19th and 20th home runs to lead the Giants to an 8-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Pitching—Marv Grissom, New York Giants, hurled two and two-thirds scoreless innings in relief to stop a Cardinal rally.

Detroit Back In Action After Much-Needed Rest

DETROIT (AP)—It was back into action today for the Detroit Tigers after a much needed two-day rest. A doubleheader series finale with Philadelphia was rained out Sunday and the Tigers had an off-day Monday.

The New York Yankees invade Briggs Stadium today for an important three-game series.

Manager Casey Stengel's world champions are busy closing the gap that separates them from the top of the league. The Yankees now are only five games behind league-leading Cleveland and one game back of the Chicago White Sox. They are 10 1/2 games ahead of the fourth place Tigers.

The series is a crucial one for the Tigers too, since a sweep of the three games by New York could well send the Bengals sliding into the second division.

The Tigers, who have won only two of eight games from the Yankees this year, are perched precariously in fourth place 15 1/2 games behind Cleveland and only a single game ahead of the Washington Senators.

But percentage-wise, the Tigers' edge over Washington is a little better.

Detroit has a 27-32 won and lost record for a .458 average while the Nats have won 27 and lost 34 for .433.

Indians Await Yank Invasion

By ED CORRIGAN
AP Sports Writer

While the New York Yankees staggered and floundered five games off the pace, the Cleveland Indians confidently awaited an invasion by the Philadelphia A's to-night.

In fact, the Indians were busier thinking about the weekend series with the Yankees.

This is the year Manager Al Lopez has been waiting for. No one in Cleveland thinks the club will fold in the final stages as it has before. Silenced are the critics who have been howling for Lopez' scalp because he used Bob Lemon, Early Wynn and Mike Garcia as both starters and relievers.

Now, when the stretch run comes, Lopez will have a couple of good relievers to send in. Both Don Mossi and Ray Narleski have filled a big void in the bullpen. The club knows it can win.

As for the Yankees, Manager Casey Stengel is saving his aces, Eddie Reynolds, Whitey Ford and Ed Lopat for the Indians.

In the National League, the New York Giants pulled a game ahead of the Brooklyn Dodgers with an 8-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in the only major league game scheduled Monday. Willie Mays hit two home runs, but the Giants still required the services of three pitchers — Jim Hearn, Windy McCall and Marv Grissom.

Some Good Tips On Your Gas Tank

DETROIT (AP)—A full tank will lose some gasoline on curves and bumps and, on a hot day, will lose some by expansion says L. M. van Noppen, an official of an auto finance firm. Even worse, he says, is an almost empty full tank. This brings higher evaporation losses. The tank also will contain moist air which will condense and leave water in the tank. Running out of gas can damage the fuel system. The last dregs of gas will take accumulated tank sediments into the system and can lead to an expensive cleaning job.

Strike Ties Up Big Fir Mills

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—The fir lumber industry was virtually shut down in Oregon and Washington Monday as more than 80,000 workers went on strike.

The Redwood Lumber industry of northern California was shut down, too. But most operations in the pine belts of California, Oregon, Washington, Montana and Nevada continued to operate.

Kenneth Davis, executive secretary of the AFL Lumber and Sawmill Workers Union, said that while his union had struck most of the fir belt operations, he was encouraged by last minute offers which ranged around 7½ cents an hour.

The AFL union and the CIO International Woodworkers, joining in a cooperative strike for the first time since 1937 when they split, have demanded an increase of 12½ cents an hour.

Davis said negotiations are continuing with those who have made "substantial offers" and if any pattern develops that looks like a "fair settlement" it will be considered by the AFL.

The AFL union did not call out its members in California, Montana, Idaho and Nevada pine belt. The CIO in the pine belt has left strikes up to locals, while keeping them advised to the fir belt situation.

Charlene, Billy and Bobby Bradley of Milwaukee arrived Saturday to spend their summer vacation at the home of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hall Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Sundin and Mrs. Julia Sundin visited Friday at Manistique at the John Wood home.

Elmer Hall Jr., of Milwaukee spent the weekend at the home of his parents, the Elmer Hall Sr.

Miss Arlene Bonifas is the house guest of Miss Carol Green at Manistique.

Grand Rapids Man New Head Of VFW

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Leon B. Buer, of Grand Rapids, was named commander of Michigan's VFW at the close of the organization's 35th annual encampment Sunday.

Donald M. Draher, of Indian River, was elected senior vice commander; Max C. McCann, of Mason, junior vice commander, Christie J. Braun, of Lansing, quartermaster; Peter P. Darrow, of Ann Arbor, judge advocate; Dr. William T. McAlonan, of Detroit, surgeon, and the Rev. Marion Majors, of Battle Creek, chaplain.

The ancient Egyptians, Phoenicians and Persians began their year with the autumnal equinox (Sept. 21).

SWALLOW PROBLEM AT DETOUR—Msgr. Theodore Bateski of Sacred Heart church in Detour, Mich. points out to a group of visitors the chimney used as overnight shelter by a flock of several thousand swallows. He has refused to light the furnace when needed to get rid of the early morning spring chill, until a method is devised to get rid of the birds. (AP Photo)

Soo Men Chase Moose At 25 Miles An Hour In Dunbar Forest

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP)—Wilbur Tobias and William Lines played speed cops Monday and chased a bull moose at 25 miles an hour for three-quarters of a mile along a road in the nearby Dunbar Forest.

Moose are a rarity in the eastern end of Michigan's Upper Peninsula. Tobias and his wife were driving to their Soo grocery store and Lines also was on his way to work when the moose lumbered from the woods onto the road.

The grocer, who said it was the first time he or his wife had seen a live moose at close quarters, motioned Lines alongside and together their cars herded the big beast along. After nearly a mile, the animal left the road and returned to the woods.

"I just wanted to see how fast he could travel," Tobias said.
